

Cookie statement

EurAqua uses necessary functional and technical cookies on this website and, to a limited extent, analytical cookies. These cookies are anonymised, i.e. we do not store personal data. We use cookies to improve the website for website visitors. When you first visit the EurAqua website, or after you have deleted cookies from your device, a banner will appear in which you can indicate whether and which cookies you accept.

Technical and functional, and privacy-friendly analytical cookies are necessary for our website to function and do not require permission. These standard cookies (technical and functional) are always on.

The EurAqua website places necessary functional and technical cookies (first party cookies) and, to a limited extent, analytical cookies. The functional cookies are necessary for services on this website to function. With the analytical cookies, EurAqua keeps anonymous visitor statistics to gain insight into the use of this website, in order to improve the website. The analytical cookies also measure the length of time a visitor spends on a page and the order in which different pages are visited.

When you first visit the Deltares website, or after you have deleted cookies from your device, a banner will appear in which you can indicate whether and which cookies you accept.

Technical and functional, and privacy-friendly analytical cookies are necessary for our website to function and do not require permission. These standard cookies (technical and functional) are always on.

You have two choices:

- Accept all cookies. This concerns the standard cookies and the web analysis
- Decline the cookies

Most cookies have an expiration date, after a certain period they expire automatically. They then no longer register data from your website visit. You can also choose to delete the cookies manually via the browser settings. You can find more information about this in the manual of the browser you are using.

Our Social Media buttons at the bottom of the EurAqua website lead to our social media pages of LinkedIn and Bluesky. These are links and do not use cookies.

If you have any questions regarding this cookie statement, you can contact us at EurAqua-secretariat@deltares.nl.